Did you know?

A less restrictive exhaust allows the engine to breathe easier, make more power, run cooler and use less fuel. Replacing a restrictive stock muffler with an aftermarket performance muffler can reduce backpressure and improve performance and fuel economy. High performance catalytic converters can also offer the benefits of less restriction and increased performance.

Help Keep Chico's Air Clean!

Even if you aren't required to, you can have a catalytic converter installed on your car. Having a catalytic converted will reduce harmful emissions from the exhaust. There are three basic types of automotive catalytic converters; two-way, three-way and three-way + air. Each type uses a slightly different method and chemistry to reduce the harmful elements in exhaust emissions. Call us today to find out more about adding a catalytic converter to your car today!
